Academic Council

Collaboration

Areas

The main research focus of the Institute is to analyze, design, planning and construction intelligent information computer systems using advanced technologies and software.

The main sectors and areas of application research of the Institute are:

- Public administration and social processes;
- Industrial complexes;
- Management in business and finance;
- Information activities on the global environment.

The research results provide a continuous chain management processes aparatnoho- level of technical management to the level of predictive analytical data processing and decision making.

Research laboratories INSTITUTE

- RL automated control systems (RL-62)
- RL systemavtomatyzovanoho design of analog microelectronic assemblies electronics (RL-80)
- Mathematical modeling RL (RL-84)
